Inside Your Congress

"Peace--It's Wonderful"

—by—

SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL
"The Gentleman from Indiana"

Is there a moral basis for peace—anywhere in the world? Do we have it? I wonder.

Like excited monkeys we gibber about controlling the atomic bomb. Why didn't we control it when it was wholly in our hands? Gränt that it was necessary to develop it. But why couldn't we have demonstrated it, if need be, to the Japs on an isolated mountain range without loss of civilian lives and thus avoided weakening our moral prestige everywhere in the world?

Having used it, we now say, "I want to surrender some sovereignty to somebody who will keep me from using it again. Pass a law, please, so it will be illegal for me to bomb you."

Illegal, my eye! It was illegal to use the bomb in the first place. We had already signed solemn treaties not to engage in such warfare. (The Hague Convention.)

Yes, where are the moral foundations of peace?

If the world can control the atomic bomb, it can abolish war. One is exactly as easy as the other. We talk about atrocities but war is itself the supreme atrocity.

Senator Tydings of Maryland, in a notable speech, says, "Abolish war." Why not? But that's too simple for the gadget worshippers. We have got to have something complicated.

Congressman Joe Martin said, "Abolish peacetime conscription—world wide." Again, why not? But the international super-planners gave him the ha-ha. "How naive!" We have got to have peacetime conscription ourselves. Something real fancy and costly. And then, as Senator Tydings said, we must loan billions abroad which will be used to build up foreign armament, so we will have to build up ours still higher in an endless race toward sudden death.

Does it make a particle of sense? Why shouldn't we say, "Not a dime will be loaned abroad until the nations abolish all conscription, scrap all munitions factories, and give absolute evidence that they mean peace when they talk peace?"

Why shouldn't we play some "hole" cards ourselves? Why shouldn't we use our immense bargaining power to promote peace—not finance world armament? Why not get hard-boiled and tough on this matter of peace?

Treaties! More treaties! The libraries are full of books that are full of treaties that are full of worms. Russia and Japan had a non-aggression treaty good until 1946. Russia broke that treaty even though she did not claim that Japan had violated it.

It is now plain that Mr. Roosevelt urged Russia to break that treaty. While Russia and Japan were at peace, he offered Russia the Kurile Islands—a slice of Japan's real estate—if she would do so. Did

SENATORS OVER 70

A year or more has elapsed since Thomas Hart of Connecticut swapped his admiral's epauletts for a senatorial toga. What has happened since seems to prove that an old sea dog can be taught new tricks for the old admiral has been at least a fifty-fifty sort of Senator. But it is apparent that any hope of changing his habit of speaking his mind undiplomatically is forlorn.

Senator Hart has announced his decision not to run again in a manner that has set some of his dignified colleagues on their ears. He explained that he will be 69 this summer and that another term would "carry him well into the seventies and that is an age of declining powers for nearly all men."

The honest but inept old—by his own admission—ex-admiral then added insult to injury by remarking that "for years it has been true that men of too advanced age have held seats in the United States Senate."

The reaction of his colleagues to this heresy was as sharp as if he had trodden violently on their toes. For while Senator Hart at 68 may be well past the Navy's retiring age, he is a relative spring chicken in senatorial ranks. Senators from 70 to 80, rumpled testily that they feel as young as ever.

There are, in truth, some rare men whose vitality and usefulness do not seem to be impaired by age. But it must be admitted that some Senators hang on to their seats too long. Sen. Carter Glass of Virginia has not been in his seat for years. Presumably his check is mailed to him. It might be a good thing for the Senate and the country if more Senators would follow Hart's example and step out in favor of younger men. But it must be admitted that among the comparative youngsters in the Senate, there are none that are particularly hot.

SMALL BUSINESS REVIVAL

A dispatch from Oklahoma confirms that revival of small business is definitely under way. Report of the Oklahoma Tax Commission for the final quarter of last year contains many interesting facts on the subject. What has happened in Oklahoma has taken place in other states.

The commission keeps close tab of new concerns, at the same time listing the casualties. The net gain for the three months was 1,179.

Resumption of automobile manufacturing, later to be checked by strikes, prompted the opening of twenty additional dealerships. Six established concerns closed their doors. There was a net gain of one undertaker, a net loss of one hotel. Greatest increase came in food stores, with a gain of 228 establishments. The gain in restaurants and cafes was 206.

Ninety-six home appliance stores were opened and only five went out of business. In all, 2,485 new businesses drew their first breath during the period and 1,306 gave up the ghost. What has happened in Oklahoma is typical of other states.

FACTS AND FIGURES

"average" of a two-foot bounce is one foot—but, figures or no figures, you can be perfectly sure the ball will come to rest on the floor itself, and not float around twelve inches above.

Figures can be used to prove almost anything. Do you think a dog can catch a rabbit? Figures can show you wrong. How? Suppose the rabbit has a ten-foot start and the dog travels twice as fast as the rabbit. When the dog has gone ten feet the rabbit has a five-foot lead. When the dog travels that five feet, the rabbit is still two and a half feet ahead. Each time the dog covers the distance between them, the rabbit is still half of that distance ahead. The process can be carried down to the most complicated fraction, or to the smallest decimal—and the rabbit is still ahead.

The argument is convincing enough, so far as it goes; but the rabbit knows better than to rely on any such "horseback figuring." He knows he will be run down and caught unless he makes the dust fly for the nearest bramble-patch.

Figuring of the New Deal "economists" raises the question of whether the American people have the judgment and realism of the rabbit.

If they do, they will disregard all glib "figures" which seek to prove something their commonsense tells them can't be true.

National debts, for example, are not retired by government spending in excess of receipts; Truman's "figures" attempting to show this can be done in his budget are pure hokum.

Likewise with the tricky "fact-finding" calculations to show how a little price advance can cover a big wage increase.

These calculations omit one point which invalidates them.

A wage increase in steel will set the pace for wage increases in all other fields of industry and commerce; every other item in cost of steel production, and not merely the payroll, will rise correspondingly.

There isn't enough power in all the government in the world to hold down prices when costs are rising; and there isn't enough money in all the world, nor sufficient presses to print enough money to support a subsidy program which would "conceal" the mounting prices.

The program is direct inflation. The door was opened, not when the Bowles "no-price-rise" stand was abandoned, but much earlier—when the President said in effect that a 30 per cent wage increase was possible without higher prices.

Like a dog chasing its tail, inflation sends wages pursuing rising prices, and rising prices following higher wages. Inflation is a vicious circle in which no one wins except political opportunists who ride the tide and are smart enough to get off before the crash.

The decision which plunged the nation further into the spiral was made in the White House. President Truman was neither wise enough nor firm enough to tell organized labor to seek higher pay after, and not before, industrial reconversion had been completed and full-scale production got under way.

Inflation is not yet in the "runaway" stage; but neither is expanding ice which breaks a waterpipe. The irresistible pressure of inflation, once it is condoned by government, is now making itself felt.

Unless an enlightened Congress can wrest from the executive department the misused "war powers," this nation is committed to a policy which leads directly to bankruptcy by way of inflation.

Hulmeville Methodist Church

Announcements for Sunday and the following week at Neshaminy Methodist Church, Hulmeville, are as follows: 10 a. m., Church School, adult worship leader, Miss Edna M. Schatt; 11, morning worship, the Rev. Arthur D. Sargis, pastor; Sunday School, 9:45; seven o'clock; Church School, 9:45; seven o'clock, the young people will meet in the lecture room; 7:45, evening worship.

On Thursday evening, prayer meeting will be held in the lecture room at 7:30. The meeting will be conducted by Edward B. Vansant, A social, under leadership of Otto Grupper, Jr., will be held in the church house on Thursday evening, at 8:15 o'clock.

At the end of 1945, he said, 7,546 men from penal institution in the State were on parole, and of this number 251 were women.

The parole system, as worked out by law in this State, consists of a parole board of three members, one of which is the chairman; throughout the State are eight district offices, and the agents work out from these offices.

At present the case load in Philadelphia per agent is 125 parolees. It was said it should be no higher than 75 in order to give adequate service. Mr. Mills declared all parole officers in the near future will take civil service examinations.

Reports from Europe are that American prestige is at the lowest point it has ever been. Is it any wonder? Poland! Finland! The little peoples of the Baltic! They got in the way of the iron chariot.

Commenting upon juvenile delinquency, Mr. Mills said it costs $1500 a year to keep a child at a Pennsylvania training school. He explained that if a community could keep three children a year out of such a training school, it could pay for a probation officer. Bringing his talk to a close, Mr. Mills urged that communities spend more money for crime prevention.

By staying at peace they proved they were "non-peace-loving nations."

We know, too, from Admiral Stark in the Pearl Harbor inquiry that Mr. Roosevelt proposed that we take the Azores Islands by force from Portugal, a nation with whom we were at peace, which had given us no offense!

The concept of neutrality, slowly built up during centuries, to limit war if it breaks out, like a fire wall in a building—a principle to which Washington and Jefferson dedicated this young nation—this we have torn to shreds and thrown on the dung heap. We have said, in effect, that no nation may remain neutral whenever we go to war.

Having shown the world how to use the bomb, we have gone pious, and desire to preach to the heathen. But the Bible says, "He that ruleth his spirit is better than he that taketh a city."

Reports from Europe are that American prestige is at the lowest point it has ever been. Is it any wonder? Poland! Finland! The little peoples of the Baltic! They got in the way of the iron chariot.

Isn't it time to stop being hypnotized by all these shiny man-made gadgets—and appeal to God and the conscience of mankind? A humble and contrite heart!

On Exhibition Which Is Attracting Attention*WINNING APPROVAL

New 1946 Hudson automobiles, now being shown by Beaver Auto Sales, Beaver at New Buckley street, are winning instant approval due to the postwar advances in exterior and interior styling, mechanical efficiency and ease of operation, according to Mr. DiNunzio, proprietor.

Declaring that the new models fully meet the demand for better cars for better driving, DiNunzio said that deliveries will be made as rapidly as possible and those placing the first orders will get the first cars. He added that present Hudson owners are well represented in those viewing the first cars built since the end of the war.

Mr. DiNunzio has been advised by the factory that Hudson is in a unique position for production by reason of early reconversion, early orders for materials and an integrated plant that enables an unusually high percentage of the complete auto's components. He continued:

"The new models are being offered in two distinctly different "style lines"—the Super series and the Commodore series, each available with six or eight cylinder engines. However, immediate production schedules call for four-door sedans powered by six cylinder engines followed by broughams and club coupes. Three-passenger coupes and convertibles will be added to the Hudson line as rapidly as urgent demands for first production models will permit. Convertibles and eight-cylinder powered cars in both the Super and Commodore series will be produced as rapidly as possible."

Fred Short, who is employed by a private school in Philadelphia and was in the navy, was ordered by Judge Keller to pay the sum of $10 a week for the support of his wife, Edna R. Short, of Newtown. Mrs. Short testified her husband had lost numerous good jobs because he wouldn't refrain from drinking.

"I know that you can earn more than you are at the present time and that is why I am making this a temporary order," Judge Keller said.

Mrs. Esther H. Lathrop, Golf View Road, Doylestown, who appeared in court following a charge of speeding and a waived hearing, was directed by Judge Keller to pay a fine of $10 and the costs of prosecution.

Judge Boyer recommended that her operator's license should not be suspended.

Private Meyer M. Aulenbach, of the Penna. State Police, testified that he clocked Mrs. Lathrop and that she was driving her car at 60 miles an hour for a half mile, between Tabor Home entrance and the Turk Road, on the Easton Highway, September 28, 1945.

"I was cruising along on my patrol at about 45 miles an hour when Mrs. Lathrop whizzed by and I followed her at a distance of about 50 feet keeping my one eye on the speedometer," Private Aulenbach said.

William E. Driver, of Philadelphia, repairing and testing of speedometers specialist, testified that on September 14 he tested a speedometer on the patrolman's car and it registered speed accurately.

Mrs. Lathrop, who is a public accountant and works in Philadelphia, testified she was "clocked under 40 miles an hour." "When the officer stopped me he said: 'You don't mind taking the middle of the road, do you?'" Mrs. Lathrop said. "I might have been going 42, but never more than 50, because the car would have shimmied too much."

She testified that it had been bumped by another car while parked along the street in Philadelphia and that it would have shaken too much if it had been driven more than 40 miles an hour.

Russell Beer, garageman, testified that he made repairs to Mrs. Lathrop's car some time in October and told her not to drive it faster than 40 miles an hour because faster than that it would shake too much.

High School Quintet Meets Bensalem Here

Handicapped by the loss of five varsity players, Coach Tom Campion will line up his Bristol High School quintet against Bensalem High School tonight on the local floor in a Lower Bucks County League contest. The first game between the junior varsity teams of the schools will start at 7:30 o'clock.

The suspension of the quintet of players was announced this week by the local school authorities and Coach Campion in his tilt against Hamilton on Tuesday night was forced to use junior varsity players on his varsity squad.

The suspended players, Johnny Centone, "Reds" Feole, "Sunny" Fields, "Deezy" DeLise and Al Burton are suspected of having played with teams other than the high school team. A junior varsity player, "Moe" Caucel, is also involved.

The dent in the Bunnies' line-up will weaken the team considerably and Bensalem is no easy opposition on the basketball court. In the game at Bensalem several weeks ago, Bristol won by but three points.

It is most likely that Coach Campion will start Joe Natale and Johnny Pindar as forwards, "Jimmy" Sottile will be at the pivot post, while Stan Lelinski and "Easy" Mama will take up the guard posts. Against Hamilton, DeLong, Iannucci and Konefal were used as replacements.

Coach Harold Stackhouse, of the junior varsity, still has a long list of players to choose from, and is expected to start Martin, Esposito, Wallack, Accardi and Harin.

The Bensalem players are now being coached by "Woody" Wetherhold, who recently was discharged from the navy and has returned to his post. Leading players on the Cornwells Heights team are Jack Hansen, Rosenthal and Abe.

OUT OF THE ARMY

Men from Bucks County who were granted army discharges at Indianapolis Gap on Wednesday are: Cpl. Arthur F. Gilroy, R. D. 1, Morrisville; Pfc. Ulysses C. Wharton, Yardley; Pfc. Andrew Galambos, Morrisville; Pfc. John R. Harrison, New Hope.

Some Nice Shots For The Losers

The strong J. A. Roebling team, which only last week beat the American Steel team, handed the Rohm and Haas dribblers a 54-41 loss last night on the club-house floor, Maple Beach.

It was a case of too much Rossi brothers for Rohm & Haas. The trio of brothers scored a total of 37 points among them besides what their passing helped to account for "Mario" and Gil Rossi scored 32 points between them.

The Rohm and Haas team trailed from the start although both Joe Roe and Ralph Cahill got in some nice shots but the chemical mixers' passers could do little with the steel workers.

It was announced that the Trenton Raiders would play the Essington girls and the Rohm and Haas boys play Mt. Holly, Sunday, on the Rohm and Haas floor.

SPORTSMEN'S BRIEFS

BY JOE ELBESON

Meeting Tuesday . . . the February meeting of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association will be held Tuesday evening in the Odd Fellows' Hall, Walnut and Radcliffe streets. Several matters of interest to members and sportsmen in general will be discussed. All interested sportsmen are welcome to attend.

Fishing booklet . . . compilation of materials for the 1946 edition of its booklet, "Fishing Accommodations in Pennsylvania" is already under way, the State Department of Commerce Vacation and Recreation Bureau announced today. The book should be ready for distribution about the middle of March.

The booklet will list hotels, inns, cabins, camps, farm homes and mountain homes and other places where anglers may obtain accommodations during the season, the fishing laws, the names of warden's and their addresses and will give other information of interest to fishermen.

You can get your copy of this handy little booklet by dropping a penny postal card to the Department of Commerce, Harrisburg.

Cutting game loss . . . failure of hunters to use dogs to retrieve game they shoot represents an unsportsmanlike annual waste of at least five million waterfowl alone, according to Charles E. Gillham, chief of the Western-Winchester Sportsmen's Service Bureau.

Negligence in retrieving all birds shot constitutes an evasion of the legal limit inasmuch as a hunter may carry only his limit off the field, but may leave another hunter's limit lost in the brush, says Gillham.

Losses in pheasant covers without the use of dogs often runs as high as 40 per cent, Gillham estimates that two out of every seven pheasants shot in South Dakota by dogless hunters were not recovered. Forty per cent more people could have gotten their legal limit in South Dakota had all birds shot been recovered.

Using a dog to retrieve fallen game, not only spreads it out, but gives hunters the satisfaction of knowing they have played the game for the good of other hunters and the game supply. Many hunters deplore losing a bird and spend much time searching for fallen game. Their shooting is disrupted through the loss of their limited time in searching, but they are sportsmen enough to feel badly because they have shot a bird they cannot find.

Encouraging sign . . . a small advertisement placed in this paper by a Mill Street sporting goods dealer a few days ago advertising shotgun shells for sale.

Wanted . . . information concerning anyone in this section who has both an interest in, and the necessary equipment, for raising day-old pheasant chicks. The chicks will be furnished by the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association, and this club is willing to pay a reasonable fee. The pheasants will later be released on open hunting territory for the shooting pleasure of all hunters.

ONE-HANDED SHOT WINS FOR CELTICS

EAGLES MANAGE TO DEFEAT EDGELEY

A beautiful one-handed shot by "Johnny" Gullatto gave the Celtics a 37-35 win over Franklin A. C. last night on the Mutual Aid floor. Only forty seconds remained in the Bristol Youth tilt when Gullatto made his winning shot.

The victory put the Celtics in a deadlock for fifth place, one game away from the Catholic Boys' Club who holds the fourth position.

Franklin is now in a tie with Harriman for the top notch position.

The game was close from start to finish with the lead changing several times. The Franklin boys were trailing in the final quarter when Barretta helped to tie the score before Gullatto made his winning two-pointer.

Gene Barretta topped the Franklin scorers with 16 points while Ralph Manera and Gullatto were the high men for the Celtics with 11 counters.
